Privacy Policy

The Columbus Police Foundation is committed to the privacy of its online visitors. Your privacy is a priority to us and we have established this Policy to ensure its protection. All contact information you provide on this web site, including your e-mail address, will be used only for the processing of The Columbus Police Foundation online donations, purchases or for communication with us on donation or purchase confirmations, or other notifications related to your online relationship with us. Your contact information will only be shared with required third-parties when necessary to complete transactions you have requested. It will never be shared, traded or sold to any non-affiliated third party under any circumstances.

To help ensure the security and encryption of your personal and financial information when making financial transactions via our website, your on-line donations are processed using PayPal. The PayPal payment processing system uses the latest SSL cert technology to prevent unauthorized parties from viewing or intercepting this information. In addition, we do not store credit card information anywhere on our web server.

This site may contain links to other websites. We will never share your contact information with these websites. However, The Columbus Police Foundation is not responsible for the content of other sites or their privacy policies.

If you have questions or concerns about our Privacy Policy, please email us at admin@thecolumbuspolicefoundation.org.
